What parents might not know but need to look for

By LISA BICKNELL
CV&T News Editor

Your teen could be hiding drugs in plain sight and you might not even know it.

That's the message Trooper Robert Purdy had for a group of citizens who met at the Estill County Extension office to learn about heroin and addiction.

"The days of partying with just a case of beer are past," he said.

Pill use is waning too, with new state regulations such as KASPER making doctor shopping more difficult for abusers.

In the past, Purdy said, "Pill Bills" would take x-rays to Florida to get prescription pain medicine and bring the drugs back to Kentucky for dealing. But with new legislation making that more difficult, opiate addicts are seeking other cheaper ways of getting high. (Oxycodone, hydrocodone, morphine and heroin all fall into the category of opiate drugs.)

Purdy said heroin is the latest drug of choice, and a habit can be sustained on $50 a day as opposed to $150 a day for pills.

A common scenario, he said, is for a dealer to catch a ride on a Greyhound bus to Berea where an Estill County resident might pick them up and allow the dealer to reside with them while they sell

Heavy rains close roads again

By LISA BICKNELL
CV&T News Editor

Torrential rains caused widespread flooding in Estill County again on Friday, the third round of flooding within a couple of months.

While there was no major damage, there is a lot of cleaning up to be done, said Estill County Judge-executive Wallace Taylor.

"Water covered a lot of roads and a lot of culverts were stopped up," he said, noting that road crews are also having to clean up a few slipped banks.

At least four inches of rain fell on the county in the hours before daylight on Friday morning, causing many streams to run wild and jump ditches as culverts became clogged with leaves, debris and rocks.

Taylor said he has lived on the river all his life, but he's never seen it raise that quickly. He also said it would be at least two weeks before county culverts are cleared.

County crews worked on Good Friday and on Saturday.

Local water companies have seen some erosion around water lines, but there have been no major problems such as those that were experienced

Hatfield to be featured artist

By LISA BICKNELL
CV&T News Editor

Many locals have never forgotten the speed painting demonstrations performed by local artist John Hatfield in a couple of Estill's Got Talent competitions a few years ago.

As John quickly applied paint to a canvas, a recording of John Lennon's "Imagine" played in the background.

It was not apparent what he was painting until the song came to an end, and he flipped the canvas to reveal the face of Lennon to the crowd.

John later won a talent show with a speed painting done to Michael Jackson's "Face in the Mirror."

He first began to show promise as an artist when he was just a boy.

Newton-and tree-grew up together

By LISA BICKNELL
CV&T News Editor

When Jr. Newton was eight years old, he was about to mow the yard with an old reel-type push-mower when his mother gave him a piece of advice that he's never forgotten.

She put an old tub around a black walnut sprout in the corner of the yard and told him not to move it, because she didn't want him to mow down the small tree.

For the most part, Jr. minded her.

He never did take the tub away, but as the tree grew slowly, he slid it up the trunk until the trunk got so big the tub wouldn't go any higher.

The circumference of the black walnut is now as big around as a wash tub—about 7 feet off the ground—and it's 70 years old.

Jr. said when the tree was planted, it was about as "big around as your finger and about a foot and a half tall."

"What amazes me is that the tub is in as good a shape as it was back then," he said.

The bottom was rusted out of it when his mother placed it around the sprout, but the sides are still intact, just another indication of how things used to be built to last, Jr. observes. Floyd Jr. Newton, son of Floyd and Della Rogers Newton, lives on the farm where he was born. He has lived there all of his days except for the short time he moved to Wisemantown, just a mile or two down the road. “I was here every day,” he said, “working and stuff.” His parents bought the farm near the foot of Dug

Hill in 1931. From Jr’s back porch, he can check on his cattle as they graze new spring grass on the rolling hills behind his house. Jr. stays active tending to a small greenhouse and raising a big garden, while providing homes for bluebirds, martins and a collection of barn cats. His memories anchor him to the land he loves. “When you was born on a place, and you really like it there, it’s home to you,” Jr. said.

Estill County Sheriff’s Department

3-26 Bobby G. Saylor, of 1530 Gabbardtown Road, was served a warrant from Estill District Court by Kentucky State Police Trooper Jason Carpenter. The warrant stated that on March 26, 2014, Saylor was involved with two other males in a drug incident. Saylor is said to have run from the scene as Sheriff’s deputy Russell Morris was gathering information. Three small bags of a crystal-like substance and a 9 mm Ruger were located in the driver seat and console, as well as numerous pipes and needles. Two men were arrested and charged, but no one would claim ownership of the items. The warrant charged Saylor with possessing drug paraphernalia, possessing a controlled substance, first degree, first offense, and possessing a handgun by a convicted felon, which is a class C felony. Saylor is being lodged in the Roederer Correctional Complex in LaGrange.

3-31 Paula Voils, 34, of 2335 Dreyfus Road, was charged with theft by unlawful taking of two pairs of sunglasses from the Dollar Store. The items were valued at $14.84.

Irvine Police Department

3-30 Jessica R. Ledford, 35, of 504 Cantrill Street, was served a bench warrant for failure to appear in court for several traffic violations.

3-30 Joshua Ledford, 34, of 504 Cantrill Street, was served a bench warrant for failure to appear in court for traffic violations. He was also served a bench warrant for failure to pay fines.

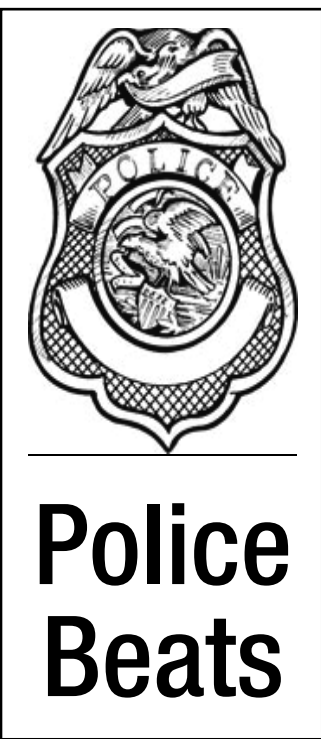

3-31 Donna A. Doty, 42, of 4235 Richmond Road, Apt. 1, was served a bench warrant for failure to comply with the Westcare reporting program. Underlying charges include trafficking in a controlled substance, first degree, first offense; possessing a controlled substance, second degree.

3-31 Amanda Cox, 34, of 142 Kirkland Avenue, was arrested by IPD Officer Michael Gross after he received an alert that a woman was snorting Xanax with two children in the back seat of her vehicle. Cox failed field sobriety tests, according to a police report. Her license was found to be suspended, and she is said to have a previous DUI charge in 2011.

4-1 Christina Brooks, of 227 Mountain Crest, was served a bench warrant for failure to appear in court.

4-1- Amanda Arvin, 34, of 142 Kirkland Avenue was served an arrest warrant from Estill District Court for theft by unlawful taking (cold checks).

4-2 Mark Nicholas Worrell was served a bench warrant for failure to pay court costs for the underlying charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol or drugs; failure of a non-owner operator to maintain required insurance, and no registration plates.

4-3 Ginny McKinney, 31, of 1212 Cow Creek Road, Ravenna, was observed driving west on River Drive and swerving in the lane. When pulled over, she failed field sobriety tests. She agreed to a blood draw and admitted to taking oxycodone two days prior. Her 11 year-old daughter was in the car, according to the police report.

Crash sends two to hospital

A White Oak woman was seriously injured in a car crash on Richmond Road Saturday morning. Arzella Crawford, 78, of 1044 White Oak, was driving west in a 1999 Dodge Neon when she attempted to make a left turn into the parking lot of Dextral Horn’s flea market on Hwy. 52. Crawford’s car and a car driven by Mary Martin, 48, of 100 Millstone Drive, Richmond, collided in the east-bound lane. Both drivers were transported to Marcum and Wallace Memorial Hospital with injuries.

Crawford was taken to UK Hospital via an ambulance, and Martin was flown to UK. Police say Martin was later treated and released. Crawford suffered multiple fractures, but is expected to recover. Three children were traveling with Martin in a 2013 Dodge Charger but were not hurt. Police reports said three witnesses gave similar accounts of the accident.

after the snow storms in March. Schools were forced to close because of road closures and flooding at one of the elementaries.

Estill Springs Elementary’s green wing flooded, with two or three inches of water standing in four classrooms and the hallway. ESE Principal Jessica Mullins said staff from all the schools in the district came to help with clean-up.

She also said Billy “Bee” Williams came on Good Friday with a backhoe to clear some drain areas behind the school, which helped the waters to quickly recede. Mullins said water tends to run toward the building, instead of away, and it came down so fast on Friday morning that staff was not able to keep ahead of it. The school has experienced flooding on four occasions since it was built in 1988, said Mullins.

Hatton: Hope springs eternal

by Andrew Hatton
CVT Contributor

Arriving in Indianapolis like I had for many sporting events before, it's not hard to tell that this atmosphere is different; this is something special. Swarms of green, red and blue roll by. Arrogant shouts of fandom and pride are belted out from each small group as they pass. Everyone brings their optimism to the Final Four.

We enter Lucas Oil Stadium and it is filled to the brim. For many it's their first visit to the home of the NFL's Colts, and they walk around admiring the architecture like most would. It truly is one of the more eye-pleasing venues in the nation.

But the NCAA is in town, so there are no horseshoe logos to be found, no Andrew Luck jerseys, just the emblem of college sports' mighty dictators covering every available space. You don't create a billion dollar industry by marketing for Roger Goodell.

As we approach the entrance to the club lounge, current NC State Head Basketball Coach and former Alabama Crimson Tide standout Mark Gottfried is standing there. This is going to be pretty cool, Roll Tide.

We find our seats and begin to check out the environment. The basketball court has been dropped right in the middle of the football field, and looks as small as it sounds in comparison. Our seats are good, but I immediately feel for those in the nosebleeds watching the apparent flea circus before them.

But the NCAA isn't worried about viewing pleasure, they just squeezed over 72,000 in here, they can't see the game through the dollar signs. Mark Emmert is probably off somewhere doing his best Scrooge McDuck impersonation.

A buzz begins to grow behind us; I turn and see The Big Aristotle in the luxury box directly to my back. He's checking out the crowd, smiles and waves at us; it feels genuine.

The Admiral then enters the very same box; they laugh and exchange a hug. They turn their eyes to Game 1, eager to watch the next crop of NBA stars. Shaq and Robinson, two legends of the game there to see the best player in the nation, a 6'10" Blue Devil that goes by 'Jah'.

Future NBA stars are great and all, but the true stars of the first game were found on the sideline, Coach K and Izzo. Such a surreal moment, two Hall of Fame coaches meet at mid-court for the pre-game handshake on the sport's biggest stage. Goose bumps, man.

My favorite moment of the night comes when it's time for the national anthem. A student athlete from each of the four schools represented is chosen to sing; my favorite being the Wisconsin basketball player in his pre-game warm-ups. As if playing ball in front of 70,000 plus isn't bad enough, make sure you don't sing off key.

The four students each take turns singing a line separately; the Badger, the Blue Devil, the Spartan and the Wildcat. But then they begin to come together, and as they harmonize the crowd becomes electrified. That is what this is all about; these four schools, these student athletes, this moment. More goose bumps.

As the first game begins you quickly realize that this game is not like others. A stadium of fans divided evenly into four groups. Half of the stadium sits silent as the Badgers and Wildcats refuse to cheer for teams they will see in the final.

The game quickly loses its excitement; the Blue Devils have been dominant. Winslow and Okafor have added another line to their résumé-NBA scouts swoon.

The second game of the night arrives, fans waiting with bated breath; this is the primetime match-up. The Kaminsky-led Badgers in search for their moment of infamy. Also, Bo Ryan as a villain is definitely more Lethal Weapon than 007.

The second game makes up for the excitement that the first one lacked, and then some. Wisconsin and Kentucky exchange blows like heavyweight boxers in a title bout; the twelfth round looms large.

As the intensity of the second half grows, the neutrals begin to pledge their allegiance to the side of their choice. Disgruntled Spartan fans split right in half; some yell blue, some yell red.

With minutes left in the game, Wildcat fans are still confident. They've seen this movie before, they know the ending, and the good guys always win. But the optimism slowly fades.

A fan favorite fails to make an impact, the wonder-twins clutch gene never materializes, and Kentucky's Knight in Shining Armani stands on the sideline inept as the seconds tick off the clock. Immortality has slipped away.

Kentucky fans stand there stunned with ghost-like complexions. Badgers knock down more free throws. It's over.

For the fans at the game not privy to replay, there was no shot-clock controversy, no officiating shortfalls. There was a string of bad possessions, a failure to get the ball into the hands of their best player, and an opponent that executed.

As blue waves flooded out of the stadium there were scattered murmurs, but very little conversation; there are no words.

Off to the side, one man in a group speaks up. "They were kids, that was just too much pressure to put on 19 year-olds," he says. Irony coming from a group wearing "40-0" t-shirts.

"We've got it next year though, with this recruiting class," another man from the group chimes in. "We'll be back here for sure."

Hope springs eternal.

Beware of cyberscams, says Conway

by Kentucky Attorney General
Jack Conway

When Anthem, one of the nation's largest health insurers, announced last month that it had been the target of a sophisticated cyberattack, scammers seized the opportunity to prey on vulnerable customers through phishing scams. It didn't take long for emails masquerading as legitimate communications from Anthem to begin popping up in the inboxes of the company's current and former members.

My office was inundated with calls from concerned consumers who had received these emails, and many asked for advice on what they should do with them. My staff and I continue to assure consumers that the emails are bogus and should be discarded. We have also added an important section to our website, which can be found at ag.ky.gov/anthem, that provides additional information about this scam, as well as the data breach Anthem experienced.

Phishing schemes attempt to steal your personal and sensitive information, including passwords and credit card information.

These phony emails often contain malicious software camouflaged underneath "click here" links that can also gain access to your computer and private information. Consumers who fall victim to these scams risk having their finances compromised and identities stolen.

The best approach to staying safe from online scams is a proactive one. My Office of Consumer Protection and I encourage you to always be vigilant of phishing scams when checking your emails. Keep in mind that while Anthem has been a recent target, scammers often use the names of other reputable businesses and agencies in their phishing schemes in an attempt to dupe consumers.

Typically, phishing and other online scams originate out of the state and even out of the country. This often makes them difficult for law enforcement agencies to track, so knowing how to recognize these scams can help keep you and your personal information safe.

Understand that legitimate companies will never request sensitive information via email. Don't reply to these emails, click on links or call phone numbers provided in the message, and know that you can always verify the communication by calling the company directly.

Becoming a victim of identity theft can be a frustrating and stressful situation. I know because I've experienced it firsthand. If you believe someone has stolen your identity, act fast. Consider placing a fraud alert on credit reports, which alerts businesses that they should verify identity before issuing credit in a consumer's name. The alert lasts for 90 days, and you can sign up by contacting any one of the three major credit bureaus: Equifax, Transunion and Experian.

Additionally, don't forget to monitor your credit report reports and financial account statements regularly and report suspicious activity to your financial institutions. You can check your credit report for free using www.annualcreditreport.com.

Anthem continues to investigate its data breach and is determining which members' personal information was impacted by its current and former Anthem members can enroll in two years of free credit monitoring and identity protection services. I encourage members to take advantage of these services. Remember, a data breach does not automatically mean you are a victim of identity theft. However, the faster you detect identity theft, the sooner you can report and correct it.

Consumers with questions or concerns about Anthem's recent cyberattack are encouraged to visit www.anthemfacts.com or my office's website at ag.ky.gov/anthem. For additional information on preventing identity theft or to report suspicious activity, contact the Federal Trade Commission at 1-877-438-4338 or my Consumer Protection Hotline at 1-888-432-9257.

My office has also developed a step-by-step toolkit that can help protect you from becoming an identity theft victim. The toolkit is available at ag.ky.gov/idtheft.

No fear and trembling

by Glenn Mollette
CVT Guest Columnist

Christians around the world celebrate Holy week, Good Friday and Easter. This is the Christian holiday. Christians celebrate the resurrection of Jesus from the grave.

Intimidated, scared, crazy followers of Jesus were filled with courage and new hope as they saw and touched Jesus after his resurrection. Those young frightened men suddenly became world changers and were willing to die for what they had experienced. The hope they promoted and wrote about is still impacting billions of people on the planet today who follow Christ and the Bible.

Jesus never discriminated. He reached out to a woman, about to be stoned because of adultery, and saved her life. He reached out to a despised tax collector, lepers and drank a little wine with a celebrating wedding party. Jesus embraced people and that was one of the reasons many hated him.

Christians never go wrong by loving and embracing others. This is all part of being a Christian and celebrating Easter. On the same token people should respect other's beliefs. If one does not want to eat pork then we should respect that. If someone prefers the Catholic Church over the Baptist Church then let it be.

Since America is being tolerant and recognizing LGBT people, they need to be tolerant in return. Life is a two-way street. It's not all for one. I am totally opposed to discrimination and believe in equal rights for all. However, no one is going to ask a Muslim tee shirt designer to design a tee shirt that depicts Mohammed in a negative way. A Priest should never be asked to perform a wedding ceremony of two men or two women, as I believe most priests would object. A photographer is placed into a somewhat intimate position with his or her subject and should not be expected to take pictures if the photographer opposes. Simply understand and go somewhere else.

LGBT individuals should have the same civil rights as everyone else. However, the civil rights of one group should not eclipse the civil rights of another group simply because their views are not the same. Christians should also have the same civil rights as everyone else. No one in this country should have to live in fear of the other. An Indiana pizza shop shutting down because of a young girl's opinion about catering pizza to a gay wedding is just crazy. Easter is about victory and celebration. Jesus came out of the grave. Christians came out of hiding and there were courage and boldness. This is not the time for Christians or any law-abiding person to live behind closed doors in fear and trembling.

Columnist remembers reveling in rainshowers

By Beverly Thompson
CV&T Guest Columnist

when I, as a little girl, stood in the door at 524 Elizabeth Street and waited in anticipation for my mother to tell me that I could go outside and play in the warm summer rain.

Everyone loved the warm rain storms as long as there was no lightning, except for me, and I loved the thunder and the beautiful light show that was never repeated twice. Every show was different and magnificent. To this very day I love a storm.

It is God’s way of clearing the air and letting us know how great he is.

When finally allowed to go outside, and almost before I could hardly get out the door, the whole street was full of happy children running and stomping in the mud holes and screaming like a bunch of squealing pigs. We were all running around with our mouths open to catch the sweet rain drops.

This was a much needed rain, and we as children needed it as much as our parents needed it for our gardens. This was one of the joys of being young and appreciating this gift from God. None of us had swimming pools, and this was as close as we could get to our love of water.

Some of the boys were already damming up the ditches so that they could float their boats that they had made in advance. This was a glorious day and we were all happy, happy, happy.

As soon as the sun popped out, the girls would start making mud pies and prepare them for baking on a hot sun-heated rock. We were young, happy and carefree. We saw nothing but the good in people and had no fear from any stranger who came to our door.

I am standing in my doorway watching the rain. Therain is coming down so hard. I can hardly see the street. As I strain my eyes to see through this downpour, I remember a time over 75 years ago,

Our mothers fed the hobos and our fathers let them work out a day’s pay if we had anything for them to do. Everyone was invited inside to eat together at the kitchen table. Field workers, hoboes, family and friends, all gathered together for meals. Mother would never have allowed anyone to eat outside. There was always room at our table for all who were to enjoy mother’s good cooking. Everyone had been raised to help others and to be helped if we needed it.

We had no idea of what was going on in Europe, and we could never have imagined what would happen in a few short years. We were a thousand miles away from the fighting that was taking place in other countries. We thought that nothing could touch us or destroy our dreams.

Oh, how foolish we were. We could never envision what would be in store for us. We were so happy and thought that we were so safe from any danger. Evil people do evil things, and then the good people have to sacrifice their lives to save us all from their tyranny.

Working in the garden was in the same category as breathing. Everyone did it, if they were going to survive. I can remember seeing the blisters pop out when I had worked too long in the garden. No one quit, you simply wrapped a piece of cloth around your hand after mother had saturated it with turpentine and then you went about your chore.

As soon as 5 o’clock arrived, I had to go to the barn and take care of Remzy. She had to have cool water at all times, and she had to be milked in the evening and in the morning. This was my job and I knew it. As soon as we got the milk in the house it had to be strained and put away to cool. I knew that Momma would prepare a churning before long, and then we would have cold butter milk and fresh butter. You have not lived until you have tasted my mother’s hot biscuits saturated with creamy home-made butter and if we were lucky, home-made blackberry jam.

A big glass of sweet milk, and you knew that it could not get any better. When you have gone to bed with an empty stomach you can really appreciate these times of plenty. Everyone needs to have to go to bed at least once with an empty stomach to appreciate just how good you have it.

My daddy loved the law and knew just how dangerous it could be. He knew that you could be found guilty for something that you did not do. He also knew that if you pursued it to the end and presented enough testimony that the appeal court could and would overturn it, and you would be free again with no blemish to your good name.

Daddy believed in the court system, and he never turned down a chance to save someone who was being wrongly accused. He made it his aim in life to save the innocent and hopefully give them faith in our judicial system.

Daddy was not a prosecutor; he was a defender, and he did it with a vengeance. He would work and read the law until way into the night and early morning to find help for someone that he felt was innocent. Daddy said that for every law that was made, there was one to contradict it, but you had to look and study to find it. Daddy was a defender extraordinaire, and he proved it over and over again. If he was your attorney you were going to get the best defense possible, no matter how little that you could pay. His service was a dedication to make sure that you were not incarcerated unjustly.

Daddy was a good lawyer and his fellow attorneys would attest to it. They were a great group and they all loved the law and did their best to see that justice was done. Some worked to convict, while the others worked to find their client innocent. That is the American way, and that was their sole purpose. We were the products of these good people and we learned very early that crime did not pay.

We were so lucky to be raised in a time when family and country were more important than fame and fortune. It was an honor to be an American and we all knew it. We loved our country and knew that if put to the test we would fight to the death to keep it free. Patriotism was instilled in us from the moment that we were born. No one would have ever been guilty of desecrating our flag or uttering one bad word about our country. We were Americans and proud of it. Our “Pledge of Allegiance” was the first thing that we did every morning at school and then the Bible was read. We knew that our country could never fail unless we failed to honor our God, and we were raised to never be guilty of this offense.

Our county could do well to regress back to these days, because somehow along the way, we have faltered and taken the wrong path.

Pray that we find and correct our mistakes before it is too late.

DORA'S BUSY BEES by Stella Newton

We hope everyone has a real nice vacation. At this writing, I don't know where anyone is going. But we will find our next writing.

For those of you who didn't guess our mystery girls last month, they were Shirley Roberta, Karen Frazier and Bertha Peters. Here's Bertha all grown up now and hard at work on 920's. Since we couldn't get a baby picture of Ella, we decided to put in one of her now, while she is hard at it.

Tracy is the son of Tracy and Allie Fair Noland. Both parents work here at Carhartt. Tracy Earl is a helpful and independent young man. He likes staying by himself. His parents go home for lunch just to check on things.

His father bought him a couple of rabbits for Easter as a money earning project and to pass time outside.

We have all been informed how emergency calls will pass through the office. Recently Tracy Earl was confronted with a problem like he had never experienced in all his ten years. He went to check out his rabbits and found seven instead of two, five babies, an anxious mother and an excited father, who seemed to think clean them up meant eat them up. He called the office and George Ann McGee agreed that this was an emergency. She passed the information on to his mother. When they returned home they found 7 babies. A neighbor had suggested the papa rabbit be removed from the cage. Tracy Earl was very calm but with several scratches on his arm. So one day soon we may pass the Noland home in North Irvine and see a sign: Rabbits for Sale!

Association of Mature Americans Citizens tips on life

Lost in prayer

Bowing your head in prayer is a good thing to do, but be careful not to bow too low. A New Jersey man did just that at a local restaurant over a steak fajita skillet and, boy, did he get burned, reports the Association of Mature American Citizens.

He flinched when the piping hot dish sizzled and scorched his eye. That caused him to recoil, and he knocked the plate onto his lap burning his legs. He sued the restaurant and lost, so he took his case to a higher court, which also dismissed his suit.

The high court noted that the plaintiff described the plate as being “real hot” and, therefore, should have known better than to bend over so close to the food he was about to eat.

Act your age

She’s been skydiving for eight years and so when her birthday came around Georgina Harwood of Cape Town, South Africa decided that she’d celebrate by jumping out of a plane yet again.

But that wasn’t enough excitement for her, so she changed outfits and got into a shark cage for a quick dip with those underwater carnivores, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens.

It might seem an extreme way to party. But, then again, Georgina was celebrating an extremely important day-her 100th birthday.

West Irvine Cemetery Sunset Memorial Gardens

It is time for mowing season in the cemeteries. Please remember the rules. In Sunset Memorial Gardens flowers must be kept on the stones. Please don’t let anything block the mowers from going up and down the rows. If you have benches, please remove them for the mowing season. In West Irvine Cemetery flowers must be put on your stone. If hooks are used please keep them against the stone. Please don’t use anything that will block the mowers from going up and down the rows. Mowing will begin around April 5th if weather permits. Please remember no private mowing allowed. Thank you in advance for your help in keeping the cemeteries looking nice.

KSP Post 7 Combats Distracted Driving with Operation R.A.I.D.

April is the ‘National Distracted Driving Awareness Month’ and the Kentucky State Police is combating distracted driving with an enforcement campaign called Operation R.A.I.D. (Remove Aggressive, Impaired and Distracted drivers from Kentucky Roadways). The effort was developed by KSP Commanders across the state to target driving behaviors that cause most crashes in Kentucky. Operation R.A.I.D. began on April 1st and runs through April 30th.

KSP Director of Operations, Lieutenant Colonel Jack Miniard says the unique aspect about Operation R.A.I.D. is that although it will have the same objectives, each post will have a different operational plan based on crash activity in that region. “Many times, law enforcement will participate in a blanket campaign that may or may not work well in certain areas,” says Miniard. “Operation R.A.I.D. allows each post to identify targeted areas based on real time crash data and mapping systems for more effective results.”

Miniard says the campaign will have both an enforcement and educational component to assist in getting the message out to motorists.

“We will have more visible enforcement in crash corridors, more roving patrols and an increase in safety checkpoints across the state,” adds Miniard. “Posts will utilize best practices for which they have had the most success and combine current crash data to identify targeted enforcement zones.”

“Each post will be challenged to utilize their Public Affairs Officer’s as an outreach tool to the community,” says Miniard. “Through media and education we can get our message out while providing the public with safe driving resources.”

Miniard says the campaign focus is reducing loss of life on Kentucky highways.

“This program is not about writing tickets, it is about enforcing traffic laws and bringing awareness to dangerous driving behaviors that cause crashes,” adds Miniard.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) defines aggressive driving as occurring when “an individual commits a combination of moving traffic offenses so as to endanger other persons or property.”

NHTSA studies show that aggressive drivers cause two-thirds of all fatal crashes and 35 percent of all crashes.

For more information about Operation R.A.I.D. in the Post 7 District, please contact Trooper Robert Purdy or call the KSP Public Affairs Branch at (502) 782-1780.

By virtue of Default and Summary Judgment and Order of Sale by the Estill Circuit Court in the above cause, I will, on Friday, May 1, 2015, at the hour of 9:30 a.m., at the Courthouse door in Irvine, Estill County, Kentucky, offer the respective interests of the above parties in the following described property for sale at public auction, to-wit:

Tract #1:

On the north side of the Irvine-Winchester Highway, No. 89, near Harg, Estill County, Kentucky, beginning on a white oak sapling on line of highway and corner to W. G. (G. W.) Patrick, with Patrick line N 24 E 285 feet to a stake, corner to J. P. Stone's land; thence with same N 64 W 490 feet to a stake; thence S 21-30 W 443 feet to a stake at highway; thence with same S 76-30 E 280 feet, N 89 E 215 feet to the beginning, containing four and 32/100 acres. The description herein includes one acre of land on which the Harg School House is now located. Subject to any and all applicable restrictive covenants, existing easements, utility easements, rights-of-way, provisions of applicable zoning statutes and ordinances, and rules and regulations of the Department of Health, if any.

Being the same property conveyed to the Board of Education of Estill County, Kentucky, from J.P. Stone and Hattie Stone, husband and wife, by deed dated December 12, 1938, and recorded in Deed Book 74, Page 60, Estill County Court Clerk's Office, Irvine, Kentucky. Less and excepting the following tract:

Beginning at a steel pin at the corner of Embs Lane and Jesse VanCleve; thence in a Southwest direction with Embs Lane 164 feet to a steel pin; thence East 14 feet to a steel gatepost on the N.E. side of the rear entrance of Shadow Mountain Academy; thence with said rear entrance a northeasterly direction 180 feet to a steel pin; thence North 44 feet to a steel pin in the Jesse VanCleve and Shadow Mountain Academy Property line; thence Northwest with said property line 152 feet to the point of beginning containing 3/8 of an acre more or less. There is also a granted easement to the above described property beginning at the iron gatepost at the rear entrance of Shadow Mountain Academy; thence 180 feet in a northeasterly direction to set pin; thence North 44 feet to set pin in the Jesse VanCleve line; thence East with said VanCleve line 16 feet to a steel pin; thence South 64 feet to a steel pin; thence in a southwesterly direction 180 feet to a steel gatepost; thence 16 feet Northwest to the point of beginning. The grant easement shall be maintained in a good state of repair by the Estill County Fiscal Court.

Subject to any and all applicable restrictive covenants, existing easements, utility easements, right-of-way, provisions of applicable zoning statutes and ordinances, and rules and regulations of the Department of Health, if any.

Being the same property conveyed to Dwight Arvin, Estill County Judge Executive, acting on behalf of the Estill County Fiscal Court, from Robert Browning Lichfield Family Limited Partnership d/b/a Shadow Mountain Academy, by deed dated August 11, 2000, and recorded in Deed Book 240, Page 659, Estill County Court Clerk's Office, Irvine, Kentucky.

The Board of Education of Estill County, Kentucky is the same as the Estill County Board of Education.

Subject to any and all applicable restrictive covenants, existing easements, utility easements, right-of-ways, provisions of applicable zoning statutes and ordinances, and rules and regulations of the Department of Health, if any, and regulations that might apply through planning & zoning.

The above described property shall be sold upon the following terms and conditions:

- The purchaser shall take the sale real estate free and clear of the claims of the parties to this action, but it shall be sold subject to the following:
  - current year (2015) ad valorem real estate taxes affecting the real estate for which the purchaser shall take no credit on the purchase price;
  - easements, restrictions, and stipulations of record;
  - any current assessments for public improvements levied against the property; and
  - any matters which would be disclosed by an accurate survey or inspection of the property.
- The sale shall be made to the highest and best bidder or bidders. The successful bidder shall pay cash or make a deposit of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for sixty (60) days. Any purchaser, other than the Plaintiff, who does not pay cash in full, shall be required to execute a bond, with surety thereon acceptable to the Master Commissioner to secure the unpaid balance of the purchase price, and sale bond shall bear interest at the rate of 12% per annum from the date of sale until paid and shall have the same force and effect as a judgment and shall remain and be a lien on the property until paid. The purchasers shall have the privilege of paying all of the balance of the purchase price prior to the expiration of the sixty (60) day period.
- The successful bidder at sale, at bidder's own expense, may carry fire and extended insurance coverage on the improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, in an amount at least sufficient to cover a loss to the extent of the court appraised value of the improvements on the real estate or the unpaid balance of the purchase price is fully paid, in whichever amount is less, with the loss payable clause to the Master Commissioner. Failure of the purchaser to effect such insurance coverage shall not affect the validity of the sale or the purchaser's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, any party adjudicated an interest in the real estate, after giving notice to the Master Commissioner, to effect said insurance and furnish evidence of the policy to the Master Commissioner. The premium of the insurance policy shall then be charged to the purchaser as purchaser's cost.
- In the event the Plaintiff becomes the purchaser of the real estate at the Master Commissioner's sale, and if the Plaintiff's bid is less than its lien adjudged herein, Plaintiff may comply with the terms of sale by taking credit upon this judgment without making the cash deposit or executing the sale bond as provided for in this judgment.

Preventing Grass Tetany

According to University of Kentucky Extension Veterinarian Michelle Arnold, beef producers with spring calving herds should begin feeding mineral with magnesium now. Grass tetany is a disorder caused by an abnormally low amount of magnesium in the blood of cattle and sheep. Grass tetany occurs most often in animals grazing lush spring forages-- especially small grains and cool-season grasses.

Grass tetany is most common in spring calving cows, especially if they are high producers in their third to fifth lactation. Several factors contribute to the increased incidence of tetany at this time. The magnesium requirement of cows doubles from late gestation to early lactation (from 9 grams to 21 to 22 grams). When this rapid change in magnesium needed by the cow is coupled with lowered magnesium in the plant, along with certain components that lower the availability of magnesium (such as high applications of nitrogen and potassium fertilizers), tetany can develop. Weather can also have an effect; the greatest threat is when temperatures are between 40°F and 60°F. Temperatures in excess of 60°F for a week markedly decrease the incidence of tetany. When all of these factors are combined, the risk can be high.

Cattle affected with grass tetany might isolate themselves from the herd and stagger. As the disease progresses, they may exhibit extreme nervousness, rapid breathing, and muscle trembling. They might become aggressive and charge anyone in the pasture. In the most severe stage, the animal collapses to the ground with muscular spasms. Treatment must be given rapidly as death can occur within an hour after the onset of convulsions. Consult a veterinarian about treatment procedures.

As a producer, you should be concerned with preventing tetany. About 2 ounces of magnesium oxide (22 grams of magnesium) is recommended to meet the magnesium needs of lactating beef cows. Since legumes are higher in magnesium than grasses, feeding cows legume hay during the early spring may supply some magnesium. Cows grazing spring grass pasture should have magnesium in the mineral mixture; in “high risk” situations, it may be supplied in a supplement. Many commercial mixtures are available in various forms to prevent tetany. Before you make a purchase, determine if the product will give adequate magnesium intake. This depends on the magnesium content and the expected consumption of the product. Both should be listed on the tag. If it appears that magnesium intake will not be adequate, a product with more magnesium or greater intake should be used. In “high risk” situations where tetany is a frequent problem, it might be necessary to force feed the daily magnesium needs. Magnesium oxide can be included in a grain or protein supplement.

Gardening Seminar

There will be a Gardening Seminar on Monday, April 20th, 6:30 p.m. at the Estill County Extension Service, 76 Golden Court (off Stacy Lane)in Irvine. Guest speaker is UK consumer horticulture specialist Rick Durham and he will discuss growing tomatoes, beans, and sweet corn in the home garden. A light meal will be served.

Please pre-register on or before April 17th by calling 723-4557.

Aquaculture Trainings

Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service personnel will bring two workshops in pond management and aquatic weed control to Frankfort. The trainings are scheduled for April 17-18 at the Franklin County Extension office. Program organizers hope to give participants a better understanding of the possibilities of a properly built, well-maintained pond.

Kentucky farms are home to more than 233,000 ponds that serve multiple purposes including water for livestock, crop irrigation and recreational fishing. Proper management can help these systems fulfill their potential.

Bill Wurts, Forrest Wynne and Bob Durborow, aquaculture extension specialists with Kentucky State University, will lead both trainings in Central Kentucky.

Their April 17 presentation will focus on aquatic weed control. It begins at 10 a.m. and runs until 4 p.m. EDT. During the training, specialists will emphasize proper chemical selection, applicator techniques, safety and record keeping. Additional discussion topics include aquatic plant and algae identification, methods of algae control, and herbicide and algacide use.

Pesticide applicator continuing education units will be available for three specific hours in category 5 and two general hours for categories 10 and 12.

The following day’s workshop is about farm and recreational pond management. It will begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 12:30 p.m. The workshop will give participants a broad perspective about effective management tactics for ponds used for agricultural purposes and recreational fishing. Discussion topics include pond safety, water quality, managing fish populations, fish health, proper site selection, construction methods and controlling unwanted aquatic plants.

The events are free and open to the public. Preregistration is not required, but to be assured of receiving workshop materials, pre-register by calling 502-695-9035.

USDA Extends ARC and PLC Deadlines

Agriculture Secretary

Tom Vilsack has provided farm owners and producers one additional week, until April 7, 2015, to choose between Agriculture Risk Coverage (ARC) and Price Loss Coverage (PLC), the safety-net programs established by the 2014 Farm Bill. The final day to update yield history or reallocate base acres also will be April 7, 2015. For details, contact the Madison-Estill Farm Service Agency at 1-888-758-6909.

Soil Test, Don’t Guess

Farmers, gardeners, and homeowners should consider soil testing to determine what nutrients are in their soils and what nutrients are lacking that must be added for proper growth of crops, pasture, vegetables, ornamentals, or lawns. Soil testing is a special chemical analysis that provides a guideline for lime and fertilizer needs of soils. Soil testing service is available to every Kentucky citizen through the University of Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station and the Cooperative Extension Service. We have soil sample bags and soil probes we can loan.

At this time, Estill County farmers can soil test through our office for FREE thanks to funding by the Estill County Extension District Board.

For more information, visit or contact the Estill County Extension Service at 723-4557. Educational programs of the Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability, or national origin.

Homegrown By Heroes

Agriculture Commissioner James Comer, center, gave a presentation on the Homegrown By Heroes program for officials with the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff on Monday. Pictured are, from left: Cmdr. Brent J. Embry, USN, Northern Region director of the Chairman’s Office of Reintegration; Heather French Henry, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Veterans Affairs; Homegrown By Heroes producer Alvina Maynard of Richmond; Commissioner Comer; Homegrown By Heroes producer Danny Townsend of Jeffersonville; and Col. James P. Isenhower III, director of the Chairman’s Office of Reintegration. (Kentucky Department of Agriculture photo)

Agriculture Commissioner James Comer recently told national military officials that Homegrown By Heroes “is one small thing that we can do to show our appreciation for our military veteran farmers.”

Commissioner Comer hosted a presentation about Homegrown By Heroes for Col. James P. Isenhower III, director of the Chairman’s Office of Reintegration for the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Cmdr. Brent J. Embry, USN, Northern Region director of the Chairman’s Office of Reintegration. They were joined by state Rep. Kenny Imes, R-Murray, a member of the House Committee on Veterans, Military Affairs, and Public Safety; Heather French Henry, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Veterans Affairs; and Homegrown By Heroes producers Alvina Maynard of Richmond and Danny Townsend of Jeffersonville, Ky.

“We think agriculture is a growth industry in the state,” Commissioner Comer said. “Agriculture is a perfect fit for a lot of military veterans. We at the Department of Agriculture are going to do everything we can to help add value to what our military veteran farmers are producing.”

Commissioner Comer said the unemployment rate of veterans and reservists in Kentucky is higher than the statewide average. Comer said he and his senior staff conceived of Homegrown By Heroes as a way to use the popularity of the Kentucky Proud farm marketing program to help Kentucky veterans make a living in agriculture.

More than 80 veteran/farmers are enrolled in Homegrown By Heroes in Kentucky, Commissioner Comer said.

Over a Kentucky Proud lunch from Wallace Station in Midway, Maynard and Townsend chatted with the guests from the Pentagon about their businesses and products. Maynard operates River Hill Ranch, which raises Suri alpacas, and Townsend owns Townsend Sorghum Mill, a fifth-generation family farm that produces sorghum and vegetables.

Homegrown By Heroes is a brand that designates agricultural products produced or manufactured by Kentucky military veterans. Commissioner Comer launched the program in January 2013, and the brand went national on Veterans Day 2013. Homegrown By Heroes is administered on the national level by the Farmer Veteran Coalition of Davis, Calif.

Sundowner Syndrome

from Chelsea Bicknell
UK Family and
Consumer Sciences Agent

If you care for someone with dementia or Alzheimer’s disease you may notice that they get increasingly agitated, anxious, more confused or aggressive as the sun begins to set. These symptoms may be associated with sundowner syndrome. Sundowner syndrome causes people to be confused at the end of the day and into the night. It is common for individuals who are sundowning to pace, wander, ignore directions and not sleep well.

While the cause of sundowner syndrome is not fully understood by scientists, theories to its cause include changes in a person’s internal biological clock, which is controlled by circadian rhythms; changes in body temperature; sleeping disorder; inadequate exposure to light and a side effect to some medication. The shorter and sometimes grayer days of winter can sometimes exacerbate these symptoms; thankfully we are getting out of those days now that spring has arrived.

As a caregiver, various environmental or behavioral changes can help alleviate some of the symptoms associated with sundowning. For example, morning light therapy may help alleviate restlessness, sleeplessness and agitation. Researchers suggest trying to shine a full-spectrum fluorescent lamp on the individual while they are participating in morning activities such as eating breakfast or watching television. Pulling the blinds and turning regular lights on earlier in the evening may also help alleviate stress associated with the sun setting. When possible, it can be helpful to organize daily events and activities, including doctor’s appointments, visits and outings early in the day. Exercise during the day can even increase evening tiredness and lead to a more restful night. A supplement of melatonin has also shown promise in helping individuals cope with sundowner syndrome.

For more information about life changes as we age, contact me at the Estill County Extension Office. Or, join me at my workshop on Alzheimer’s titled, “Know the 10 Signs: Early Detection Matters.” Early detection of Alzheimer’s disease gives you or your loved one a chance to begin drug therapy, enroll in clinical studies and plan for the future. This interactive workshop will feature video clips of people with Alzheimer’s disease, as well as common myths and facts about the disease. It will be on Tuesday, April 14th at 10:00am at the Adult Education Center on Wallace Circle and 6:00pm at the Mountain Crest Community Room. This class is open to anyone interested. For more information call the Estill County Extension Office at (606) 723-4557.

Living Green: Living an Environmentally Responsible Life

In today’s society, “green” is used to describe everything from household cleaners to cars. It’s the topic of talk shows, books, and political campaigns. But, what does “green” really mean? Simply put “green” is environmental responsibility. Making choices that are environmentally friendly.

We, as humans, are dependent on our Earth’s natural resources. Everything from the air we breathe, to the water we drink, to the soil we use for food production – these resources are vital to our existence. Therefore, it’s important that we care for and respect these resources. Understanding how our daily choices affect our environment is key. By making a few simple changes in our day-to-day routine we can conserve natural resources and protect our environment for present and future generations.

Estill County Cooperative Extension is offering a Living Green class on Earth Day, April 22, at 6 p.m. at the Estill County Extension Office, 76 Golden Court. The class will provide information on ways to be more environmentally friendly or “green” by saving energy, conserving water, reducing waste, eating responsibly, and acting locally. For more information contact Chelsea Bicknell at 723-4557 or chelsea.bicknell@uky.edu.

Middle School news class posts paper to web

The 8th grade newspaper class at the Middle School has recently been working on an issue of their school paper. It will take the class two weeks to complete the paper, then it is posted on the middle school's website. The paper will also be featured on the CV&T website.

Zachary Riddle interviewed the new secretary at the front office, Samantha Rawlings. When Riddle asked if Rawlings liked working at the middle school and why, she said she likes working there because of the kids and her co-workers.

Brian Johnson's assignment was to interview 7th grade and to generate a poll. The question Johnson asked students was, "Who is your favorite UK player?"

Johnson went to the lunch room during 7th grade lunch to talk to the students. At first he had a hard time finding students who wanted to participate, but he kept at it and eventually Johnson found students to interview. The first student to respond was Audrey Arvin. Her favorite player is Booker. Next was Alexis Burns, who said her favorite player is Devin. Justin Willis said his favorite player was Booker also, and Matt Kelley said Hawkins was his favorite player.

West Irvine students learn about safety

Fourth grade students from West Irvine Elementary spent much of the day Thursday at the fairgrounds where they learned about safety.

County agents from Estill and other counties taught the students about protecting their health and how to remain safe when riding all-terrain vehicles. LEX 18 weather forecaster Melissa Nord told students how to be safe in stormy weather, and the Kentucky State police taught a session about internet safety.

In the afternoon, a mock rescue was conducted by the local rescue squad, ambulance service and fire department. A UK helicopter arrived on scene, and students had opportunity to get a close-up view.

ECMS Olympiad team competes

The Estill County Middle School and High School Science Olympiad teams competed in the regional tournament held at Maysville Community College March 21. The middle school team placed fourth and secured a place in the state tournament to be held in Bowling Green April 25. The high school team only had four members, so they were not able to secure a team placement because they were not able to cover all 23 events. However, the high schoolers are able to compete at the state tournament in the events in which they placed first.

Following are some of the results for the middle school team: Haley Dixon and Taylor Collins got first place in Disease Detectives and fourth in Green Generation. Audrey Arvin second place in Robo-Cross. Logan Jones second place in Wheeled Vehicle. Hope Willis third in Bottle Rocket. Madalyn Tipton third in Bridge Building. Alleson Jones fourth in Air Trajectory. Kyle Bainter second in Robo-Cross, third in Bottle Rocket, and third in Elastic Launched Glider. Carl Warner second in Wheeled Vehicle, third in Bottle Rocket, third in Glider, and third in Bridge Building.

For the high school team: Caleb Stickney got first place in Astronomy and first in Fossils. Hunter Smith got first in Fossils and third in Dynamic Planet. Stephen McQueen got first in Mission Possible and third in Compound Machines. Steven Muncy got first in Mission Possible, third in Compound Machines, and third in Dynamic Planet.

Congratulations to these students for the long, hard work they put in since September and for the accomplishments they made in these science related events!

Students of the week

Logan Childers is the son of Sarah Andrews and Dwayne Andrews. He is also the grandson of Bill Childers. Logan is currently in the 6th grade, and he enjoys walking.

Logan was nominated for student of the week by Mrs. Hisle. Mrs. Hisle says that Logan is "most improved!"

Cassidy Cox is the daughter of Michelle Gentry. Cassidy is currently in the 6th grade, and she likes jump roping. Cassidy was nominated for student of the week by Mrs. Hisle. Mrs. Hisle says that Cassidy is an "excellent student. Cassidy always does her work." Mrs. Hisle also stated that Cassidy's "behavior is wonderful."

Students receiving this recognition are nominated by staff members at the Estill County Middle School for exemplary behavior, attitude, and/or citizenship.
